THE MOJAVE COLLECTION
BY CAROLYN KINDER FOR MAGNUSSEN HOME

HIGH POINT, N.C., OCTOBER 14, 2004 - Uncompromising and strong, the Mojave Collection of home accent furnishings from Carolyn Kinder for Magnussen Home, debuting at the International Home Furnishings Market, October 14-20, blends straightforward styling with a creative mix of materials.

“Combinations of slate, hammered metal, nail head trims, forged details and leather create a strong, somewhat masculine mix that is at the same time quite graceful,” says Carolyn Kinder, chairman and chief executive officer of Carolyn Kinder, Inc, who designed the collection. “Drawing inspiration from the outdoors, many of these pieces would work in less protected areas of the home, such as a screened porch or covered entry.”

Among the pieces in the collection are baker’s racks, bar tables, bar stools, chests, consoles, mirrors, planters, screens, benches, chairs, tables and lanterns.

“Mohave combines an innate strength of silhouette with incredible attention to details,” says Jeff Cook, Magnussen Home president and chief executive officer.

Among the outstanding Mojave pieces is a Corner Baker’s Rack (36_”W x 24”D x 80”H), with gentle curves in a hand-forged finish, would be eye-catching in the bedroom, bath or living room. With a mirrored back and black slate base, the baker’s rack features two glass shelves and nail head studded strip details.
